WE NOMINATE

Thomas Hilbush, 39-year old director of choral music in Princeton High School, who in the span of a single decade has established his music program, and himself, as "traditions" in a music-minded centre. This weekend, under Hilbush's direction, the High School's advanced 48-voice choir will be featured by invitation in Buffalo, N. Y., at the Eastern Division of the Music Educators' National Convention, an outpouring of some 5,000 school and college teachers of music, whose numbers will include the membership of the N. Y. State Music Association.

In accepting the highest "musical honor" that has probably ever been conferred upon the High School, the advanced choir (numbering 29 girls and 19 boys) will give a "demonstration of the standards of choral literature," presenting Haydn's "Theresa Mass in B Flat." The area of performance and the Haydn Mass are in keeping with Hilbush's contention that "we are interested in material that has something to say and not in run-of-the-mill concert selections." It is also his conviction that "good music and hard work build great choirs."

Hilbush, in developing a program which now enrolls nearly one in every four High School students in its advanced, intermediate and beginners' sessions, has consistently emphasized what the widely publicized Rockefeller Report on Education termed "the pursuit of excellence." Indicative of his success in teaching his organizations to face up to the challenges of achievement is the "extra rehearsal" the advanced choir brought into being several years ago on its own—7:30 A. M. Wednesday during the school year, with an arbitrary system of fines imposed by student leaders for unfortunates who might be as much as a minute late.

Originally an instrumental musician, or a self-described "jack of all musical trades," the Indiana-born Hilbush took the degree of Bachelor of Music at Miami University (Florida) in 1941 and, following four years of World War II duty as a pilot-instructor with the Navy air arm, entered Westminster Choir College to qualify for his Master's in Music. He joined the High School Faculty in 1948 and a year later became director of music in the Princeton Methodist Church, a post he continues to fill with distinction. He also serves as director and co-director, respectively, of the Hun Schcoli Glee Club and Princeton's Summer Music School.

Hilbush-trained alumni are uniformly grateful for his "profound influence," particularly for his insistence on high standards. One recalls: "he succeeded in removing P.H.S. from the ranks of schools staging a weather-beaten production of a weather-beaten operetta in the spring." Another reminisces about the annual Christmas Concert of the combined choral groups, totaling some 350 voices; another the premiere performance of a difficult work by Princeton's Roger Sessions. Equally relevant is the fact that 18 of the 48 youngsters singing in Buffalo this weekend plan to "major in music" in their respective colleges and universities.

For developing High School choral organizations with an esprit de corps and discipline lacking in many professional groups; for his thorough understanding of a generation too often condemned by unsympathetic elders; for strengthening the quality of this community's musical life; he is Town Topics' nominee for

"TOWN MEETING"

Opposition to "U.R." While the long-debated Urban Renewal program brings the Borough face-to-face with three key issues (1. the relocation of families and businesses and the all-important question of "housing opportunities;" 2. matters financial; 3. the Borough's future economic development), Sunday's prolonged public discussion centered about issue Number One—housing and the "residential integration" of the Princeton Community.

Over the space of two and one-half hours a gathering of some 160 persons, who overflowed the Council Chambers in Borough Hall and moved to the Parish Hall of Trinity Church on the invitation of Trinity's rector, Dr. John V. Butler Jr., heard opinions and questions set forth by upwards of 20 spokesmen, the majority of whom had previously expressed their opposition to Urban Renewal before Mayor and Council.

Positive Action. The lone morsel of positive action to come out of the meeting, with Mayor Male presiding and all six Council members in attendance, was the passage of a resolution to the effect that the Borough wishes to relate any future public low-rent housing to urban renewal relocations and wants "to retain" a maximum of 20 units as opposed to the 50 units previously reserved for the Borough by the Public Housing Administration.

The stormy moments of the session were confined to the 10-minute stretch preceding the passage of the resolution. Straughan L. Gettier, Unitarian minister, speaking as chairman of the Princeton Community Relations Group, lashed out at Dr. Harry W. Hazard, Director of the Housing Authority.

4. Endorsement of the basic principle set forth by the Mayor's Advisory Housing Committee in 1957: "Every ethical resource in the community must be mobilized . . . if Princeton is to become a living example of America at its best."

5. The Rev. Benjamin J. Anderson, in seeking an answer to the question of "Where will we live?" stressed that housing is the mutual concern of Borough and Township and that Princetonians, in solving housing problems, must guarantee the "freedom to be our best selves."

6. The Rev. John R. Bodo raised the question, "Who would be profoundly unhappy if Urban Renewal were dropped?" and subsequently suggested "a housing game," with families dislocated by Urban Renewal moving into the John-Witherspoon Area and with "socially prepared" families now in that area moving elsewhere in the community.

7. Attorney Charles R. Sperling, representing business interests which would be dislocated by Urban Renewal, suggested that all of the benefits sought through Urban Renewal could be

Mechanics Of U.R.

Late Tuesday, the Housing Authority's executive director, Harry W. Hazard, relayed to mayor and council copies of the revised Urban Renewal and Relocation Plan adopted by the Authority at its January 14th meeting and setting forth the "mechanics of relocation." The bulky document is scheduled for public hearing at the February 10th meeting of council.

Mr. Hazard, in his covering letter to mayor and council, said:

"We realize that your approval and that of the community will depend on the satisfactory solution of the problems of relocating displaced families and of relocating or adequately compensating owners of business properties in the area, as well as on a clear picture of the financial advantages to the borough taxpayer of using the Urban Renewal tool for betterment, rather than 'going it alone' on local funds."

Copies of the plan and Mr. Hazard's letter which were made available to the press before they were received by members of Borough Council, may be inspected at the Authority's office, 50 Clay Street, or at the borough clerk's office.

After expressing his organization's opposition to the erection of any additional public housing units in the John-Witherspoon area, and urging relocation of Negro families outside of the area, Gettier charged Hazard with paying "devious lip service" to other sites, with actions calculated "to set one group against the other" and with deliberately "arousing the apprehension of property-owners."

The accuracy of the Unitarian leader's statements was challenged by both Councilman Lester and John P. Wooldridge, 33 Springdale Road. The storm clouds were temporarily dispelled by motion of council terminating further discussion of the allegations and counter-allegations.

Highlights Summarized. Noteworthy developments and comments stemming from the Sunday meeting:

● The Council of Community Services through a thoughtful letter presented by its president, Mrs. Harold Sprout, clarified its first "Urban Renewal letter" of January 5th by spelling out its thoughts about the housing and relocation aspects of Urban Renewal:

1. No further building of public housing in the Joha-Witherspoon Area.

2. In interests of "residential integration," places of residence should be made available outside the John-Witherspoon area for a number of families roughly equivalent to the number being displaced.

3. Public discussion of the specific criteria to be followed by the Housing Authority in the acquisition of housing sites.

4. Endorsement of the basic principle set forth by the Mayor's Advisory Housing Committee in 1957: "Every ethical resource in the community must be mobilized . . . if Princeton is to become a living example of America at its best."

● The Rev. Benjamin J. Anderson, in seeking an answer to the question of "Where will we live?" stressed that housing is the mutual concern of Borough and Township and that Princetonians, in solving housing problems, must guarantee the "freedom to be our best selves."

● The Rev. John R. Bodo raised the question, "Who would be profoundly unhappy if Urban Renewal were dropped?" and subsequently suggested "a housing game," with families dislocated by Urban Renewal moving into the John-Witherspoon Area and with "socially prepared" families now in that area moving elsewhere in the community.

achieved by close Borough-P.M.I. cooperation.

• At the request of Burnett Criggs, restaurant-owner, whose properties fall within the projected Redevelopment Area, an editorial from the Trenton Times-Advertiser, of January 18th castigating Urban Renewal programs was read into the record.

• Mr. Gettier stated that the real housing problem "is not a Negro problem," but stems from "white fear, white insecurity" and from the lack of a "free housing market for Negroes" in the Princeton Area.

• Urban Renewal and public housing were categorized as a "political racket" by Mark A. Jones, 159 Library Place.

• Mayor Mnle, at the opening of the meeting, summarized the 1956 and 1957 reports of Mayor Sturges' Advisory Committees on Housing and pointed out during the afternoon that his administration has been concerned with the following "Urban Renewal requirements:"

1. preservation of the First Baptist Church; 2. maintaining the integrity of Green Street as a residential street; 3. stabilizing the area between "the new street" and the Borough line as a residential neighborhood; 4. the importance of the through street, "something upon which we apparently all agree."

Landmark To Go?

It has been reported from several different quarters in Princeton, without confirmation from church authorities, that officers of the Second Presbyterian Church, corner of Nassau and Chambers Streets, are weighing the merits of building a new church in the Township and of selling the church's property holdings in the heart of the Borough's business district.

Organized in 1847, the Second Church has occupied its present site since 1868. While the present building has been expanded in recent years with the addition of the Sunday School facilities opening on Chambers Street, the edifice still lacks the steeple planned by its architect shortly after the Civil War.

The announcements of the church's decision as to a possible new site in the western half of Township, and of its plans for disposing of its present corner-lot are said to be imminent.

ROUND-UP

NEWS OF NOTE: Two suits emanating from last June's four-dead auto crash east of Kingston have been settled in Mercer Court, with John W. Hudinski of Pennington-Lawrenceville Road and Dr. Russell Edmonds of Province Line Road receiving $17,500 apiece on behalf of the estates of their late sons, John W. Hudinski Jr., 15, and Arthur Edmonds, 17 . . . both judgments were rendered against Robert L. DeSandre, 18½ of Main Street, Lawrenceville, the death car's driver, and Lawrencewood Inc., whose auto he was operating . . . the need for community gymnasium facilities for the general public was underscored last Saturday afternoon by Borough Sgt. Peter J. McCrohan, recreation officer, who said he was obliged to turn 42 youngsters out of Princeton University's Dillon Gym during an hour's stay . . . the police officer indicated the problem may be presented soon to the Borough Board of Education by Princeton Youth Program leaders of the Patrolmen's Benevolent Association.

The Princeton Township Committee has set 8 p.m. February 3 for a public hearing on an ordinance to pave Van Dyke Road, actually an eastern portion of what will eventually be an extended Terhune Road, from Snowden Lane to Trinity Church's property west of Snowden . . . as passed on first reading by the Committee, the new strip will run for 1,130 feet and include a temporary turn-around, to be used by parishioners until Terhune is completed all the way from Snowden to Harrison . . . another ordinance passed on first reading was one stipulated by the Alcoholic Beverages Control Commission, which would amend the current ABC ordinance . . . When finally endorsed after a public hearing at the next regular Committee meeting February 9, the amended ordinance will not allow Township tavern customers to sip drinks after midnight, even if served before 12 . . . the ABC has ruled that the "reasonable time" phrase now covering such sipping is not "measurable" and therefore unenforceable . . .

The comprehensive Borough police report submitted a week ago by Dean Donald J. MacNamara is still being pondered by municipal leaders and police representatives who have also been considering

PRINCETON "SKY-LINE" CHANGES: Newest addition to the Princeton scene is this 87-foot "beehive," actually the world's largest nuclear reactor owned and operated by private industry. Located in Plainsboro, it is set to go into operation this week to aid basic scientific research.

TOPICS Of the Town

"ATOMS FOR LIVING"

Nuclear Reactor at Operation. The United States' biggest effort to harness atomic energy for industrial use was scheduled to go into operation this week in an 87-foot "beehive" at Plainsboro.

The 87-foot-tall, 100-ton reactor at Industrial Research Laboratories, Inc., is owned by ten of the largest industrial companies in the nation. Ground for the project was broken nearly two years ago and it has been completed at a cost of $4,500,000.

The participating companies, representing the field of manufacturing interests in present-day America, will use the reactor in support of their individual basic and applied research programs. Operation will be possible when scientists brought together a sufficient amount of highly-enriched uranium fuel to start a controlled chain reaction.

The reactor will be raised gradually to its full power potential of five million watts, the level at which it will be sustained for research operations. Its addition to the nation's scientific resources, termed by Harry L. Hillyard, President of Industrial Reactor Laboratories, as "a major contribution by private enterprise to President Eisenhower's 'Atoms for Peace' program."

Mr. Hillyard called the Laboratories "a pioneer in the field of cooperation among leading American industries to apply the most advanced scientific techniques to the improvement of goods and services for the public." He also forecast the development of "radically new or improved products" as a result of plans for the reactor's constant use here. "Atoms for Living" has been selected as the name of the research project.

Thirteen companies which banded together to form Industrial Reactor Laboratories are American Machine & Foundry, American Tobacco, Atlas Powder, Continental Can, Corning Glass, National Distillers, National Lead Corporation, National Lead, Radio Corporation of America, Socony Mobil Oil and United States Rubber.

"Swimming Pool" a Feature. The reactor consists of a special concrete pool rising 32 feet from ground level within the "beehive" dome. The core of uranium fuel is situated at the bottom of the pool, where circulating water performs the dual function of providing additional shielding and removing the heat from the nuclear reactor.

A platform around the top of the pool accommodates the reactor control room and provides working space for the operators. It also facilitates the handling of the uranium fuel beneath the water. Around the base of the pool are numerous facilities for experimental work, including special tanks in which materials under test are inserted for exposure to various types and degrees of radiation.

The permanent operating staff of the reactor will total from 30 to 40 scientists and technicians. The participating companies will also maintain a variety of facilities in their individual laboratories.

The IRL center is located on a 300-acre site in Plainsboro, between U.S. 1 and the Pennsylvania Railroad, near other structures, including a laboratory and administration building, pump house, service building and cooling towers for water and air-conditioning systems, are adjacent to the "beehive."

on the budget Monday evening. Once again, the lack of turnout indicated the citizenry's conviction that top-grade schools require no expediting.

Superintendent of Schools E. Woodhill Davis, commenting on the "quiet" session, emphasized the pre-hearing silence from Grand Jury members and board members who had stated previously that "the larger budget is necessary to 'maintain the high standards which we have received in recent years." Mr. Davis presented an affirmative vote at the annual school elections February 10.

In Princeton Township, where a similar affirmative vote probably will come the same day, educators reasoned the fact that they may have more of a voice than the townspeople. True or not, Township citizens have been invited to attend a public hearing on the proposed budget on January 22 at the cafeteria of Valley Road School.

With two new schools to be constructed, the Township has been burdened not experienced by E. Douglass in recent years. The Township's total estimated school budget of $1,240,594 — getting slightly higher each year — will be debated a bit, since the Township Board of Education has asked for a hike of $271,452 — or enough to jump the Township tax rate some 28 points.

A breakdown of the Township appropriation for the new buildings indicates will require a budget increase, $106,025. Part of this total is the result of the final phase of the three-year program of school raises adopted three years ago in conjunction with the Borough school system. It also provides for nine new classroom teachers and eight special teachers.

Dichiservice will account for an increase of some $56,000 in the forthcoming school budget, while there will be a jump in $15,000 high school tuition due to the increase in the basic tuition (from $525 to $540 per pupil) and a larger enrollment of Township students at Princeton High School. The additional cost will go to $10,700 for five new men; principals' salaries will double (to $32,600) and the salaries of principals will be doubled to $10,000; $8,000 in additional funds for walkways and drives will include the cost of work already done on the main street plus proposed sidewalk and necessary driveway repair work at Littlebrook.

How off
Is ground hog's day?

— KAL N. DERR

Well, 12 days, to be exact but then maybe the groundhog liked his vacation and didn't return until mid-week, what with the temperature climbing into the 50's on Wednesday — after a low of 10 early Sunday morning.

Tuesday will be mild, too, the Man reports, but colder weather from Canada and the Arctic Circle is on the way again. If it collides with the high pressure area moving in from the southwest, watch out for white stuff in large batches. Otherwise, winter will return just with a rapidly-dropping thermometer.

More of a possible compromise now is being considered. Employees strike at Lehniere's Restaurant appears certain to enter its fourth week on TOWNSHIP WEEKS went to press. Pickets were still parading up and down in front of the restaurant at 21 Nassau Street, the eatery was competing its second week back in business with a non-union crew and customers were still curious about the whole situation.

Highlight of this past week's strike activities was a two-hour court hearing Monday evening before Borough Magistrate Theodore P. Christen, Jr. and Justice Cornell, a waitress hired by Joseph Christen, Lehniere's owner, re-opening time two weeks ago, complained that picket Kenneth F. Dorn of The Club, rating the restaurant's iron window with a cone, then threatened, "I'll get you when you get off, even if it takes all night." The plaintiff was granted injunction in opposition to the four or five presented by the defendant, so the magistrate dismissed the charge due to insufficient evidence.

The third week of the strike, called by the Hotel and Restaurant Employees Union, Local 741, AFL-CIO, was marked by increased tension and certain collateral unpleasantness, as was the second week. Mr. Christen continued to receive a steady stream of phone calls that he was trying to buy anyone at the other end of the wire. One regular waitress, having refused to strike, was still off the job

UBIQUITOUS PLAYERS

14 Fill 60 Roles. When the Princeton Community Players unveil their long-planned production of Dylan Thomas' "Under Milk Wood" this weekend, Princeton theatregoers will witness amateur thespians at their busiest, for 14 PCP members will fill no less than 60 roles. The comedy-drama will make its bow at 8:30 this Friday at the Playmill, with subsequent performances scheduled for the same hour Saturday January 30 and 31 and February 6 and 7.

Except for the play's two narrators—Michael Glenn and Betty Fussell—all PCP participants will portray three or four hearty and individualistic townsfolk from Llareggub, on the coast of Wales. Included in the cast, which author Thomas asks to characterize such wonderful personalities as Nogood Boyo, Polly Garter, Mac Rose Cottage, etc., are Georgine Hall, Emily Stuart, Kate Chaplin, Rowland Berthoff, Reed Armstrong, William Behrle, Anne Sheldon, Shulamith Oppenheim, Philip Collins, Kit Bannard, Demos Bakoulis and John J. McIlvaine.

In addition to the PCP members, a dozen young people from the Junior Players will lend their vocal talents to a chorus of children's voices. Junior Players involved are Charlotte Farley, Lindy Good, Ann Austen, Janine Palmer, Jill Fremont, Rob Peyton, Bill Hammer, Stephen Nulty, Jeannie Furniss, Pat Fairman, Vicki Skibbins and Suzanne Clausen.

Directed by John Becker, with Nancy Houghton assisting, "Under Milk Wood" will feature an authentic set by Jacque Kupferman, whose design was executed by Braxton Ellerbee. Byron Keene and David Lai will handle

"A BOY GROWING UP"

Emlyn Williams to Return. Emlyn Williams will return to McCarter Theatre Saturday, February 7, to give his program entitled "A Boy Growing Up." Mr. Williams first presented the performance based on the stories of Dylan Thomas at McCarter in the fall of 1957.

"A Boy Growing Up" is a solo performance by Mr. Williams, but he makes no attempt to impersonate the late Welsh poet. In his appearance as Charles Dickens in the 1952-53 season, Mr. Williams first demonstrated his ability to hold the stage alone.

Tickets for the 8:30 program are still available, according to Dana Productions, which is sponsoring the appearance. They may be obtained from the Princeton University Store or by mail from 28 Campbell Hall.

THE PLAYHOUSE

The Inn of the Sixth Happiness, (January 22-27) refers to an abandoned spot in a remote mountain village of China which Ingrid Bergman—as a British servant girl—transforms into a pleasant stopping place for muleteers. Both the mandarin ruler of the village, memorably played by the late Robert Donat, and a tough Chinese Army colonel, impressively characterized by Kurt Jurgens, urge the heroine to give up her dangerous undertaking, but she is resolute. She halts a

Coming For Sure

Following a complete rewrite job on the book by talented Abe Burrows and some assistance on the music and lyrics by George Weiss, "First Impressions" is now scheduled to reach the Alvin Theatre in New York on March 12. The new musical is based on Jane Austen's "Pride and Prejudice," created by Robert Goldman and Glenn Paxton of Princeton's class of 1953.

The two Triangle Show graduates have experienced their lumps in preparing their first Broadway fling, but, finally, they are coming for sure. The idea will be theirs, most of the words and music will be theirs and they hope a goodly share of hoped-for profits will be theirs. They should have an indication soon, for "First Impressions" will try out in New Haven starting February 2 and Philadelphia starting February 10.

Giselle McKenzie originally was slated to star in the Princeton-bred musical, but has been replaced by Polly Bergen. The latter's co-stars will be Farley Granger from Hollywood and Hermione Gingold, the noted British comedienne. Burrows will serve as director as well as playwright.

footbinding practice imposed by the Peking government, thereby earning the gratitude of women and girls; she induces Donal to give the prisoners work out side the prison, thereby spreading the story of her friendship to bandits in the mountains.

As an adventurous missionary obsessed with the idea of devoting her life to comforting and aiding some of the unhappy people of China, Miss Bergman is outstanding. She is believing and inspiring, especially in the extraordinary scenes showing her leading 100 merrily clad children across mountain ranges and icy streams—and finally through the Japanese lines. "Sixth Happiness" may seem a mite too long (158 minutes); yet as produced by Buddy Adler, directed by Mark Robson and performed by the three principals, it proves to be one of the most rewarding motion pictures of the past few seasons.

A Night to Remember (January 28-31) isn't the first motion picture based on the Titanic story, but, like the best-selling novel of the same name (by Walter Lord, Princeton '39), it certainly represents the definitive work on that great human drama. Produced and distributed by the Rank film organization, here is a moving and exciting presentation with all the detail of a documentary and all the emotional appeal of a romance. It tells vividly the agonizing tale of the maiden voyage of what was then the world's largest, fastest and "most unsinkable" ocean liner—a voyage which carried 1,602 people to their deaths.

The disaster is the main business of the two-hour film and at least three-quarters of the running time is devoted to three visits on the ship after she strikes the iceberg, when universal faith in the vessel finally gives way to utter chaos. Name stars are unimportant in this gripping story, for the British have a way of getting the most out of the smallest part in such movies. Sharp and vivid vignettes are the vital ingredients of "A Night to Remember," ranging from engine room to bridge and from steerage to luxury seat. Fortunately, they blend neatly for a powerful cumulative impact.

THE GARDEN

The Confessions of Felix Krull (January 22-24), in German with English titles, teams Lisa Pulver and Henry Bookholt, who apparently has a Continental reputation as a teen-age idol, in a rather routine comedy treatment of a loose rendition of Thomas Mann's last novel. Filmed in Germany, France and Portugal, the story revolves around a young German's credo, "I love the world and the world loves me." The young man sets forth to prove his premise, and there follows mistaken identity, love pursuits and the like for this bounder who considers himself an irresistible scoundrel. Perhaps the German teen-agers idolize Bookholt, but it is extremely doubtful if the world loves "Felix Krull."

The Old Man and the Sea (January 26-31) transfers Ernest Hemingway's classic novella to the screen, with Leland Hayward as the courageous producer, John Sturges as the faithful director and Spencer Tracy as the Old Man of the title. It is an extremely difficult film to put across well, for Tracy is "on camera" for almost all of the running time (87 minutes)—by himself in a small boat. That Messrs. Hayward, Sturges and Tracy have accomplished their mission is evidenced by the fact that at least the latter is a strong contender for an Academy Award for his sensitive performance.

Many moviegoers are bound to dislike this motion picture, for the story is simplicity itself—a single incident without a beginning or an end in the conventional sense. The incident concerns a Cuban fisherman who hasn't caught a fish in three months and who is still admired by only a little boy. He finally catches a huge fish, but, before he can get it back to shore, it is devoured by sharks. Yet, the Old Man renews his faith in himself. Thanks to some fine camera work by James Wong Howe and his colleagues, a distinguished musical score by Dimitri Tiomkin and an appealing bit of acting by Felipe Pazos as the boy, Hemingway's comes off beautifully for those who enjoyed the book.

DO'S AND DON'TS

For Young Audiences. Parents who want their children to be happy theatergoers will be interested in the list of "do's and don'ts" issued by the Children's Entertainment Committee of the Borough PTA in connection with the coming program of entertainments for children. The season will begin at McCarter Theater on Tuesday at 3:30 p.m. with a performance of "Heidi" by the Rockefeller Players.

The Committee's suggestions:

Don't buy front-row seats for the youngest child. He is apt to be bewildered by bright lights, movement and the darkened theater, all of them experienced for the first time.

Do tell your child the story ahead of time. Youngsters like to know what's coming.

Don't anticipate trouble; for example, don't say to a little child, "Now, you won't be afraid of the big bad witch, will you?"

Don't ask your child questions about the play as soon as it's

IT'S NEW To Us

FAKE FLORALS

Temporary arrangements. The next time you have a arrangement with perishes and ends up in the trash basket, consider the possibility of a permanent arrangement of artificial flowers. Mrs. Jean A. Cotton will make a bouquet for you of mild rosebuds or magnificently flamboyant iris and you can hang on to it as long as you like. When it's time to give dusty, scrub them with soapsuds and lukewarm water and get Mrs. Cotton to put things back together again, and there you are for another round.

We have seen many of Mrs. Cotton's creations, some of them arranged in large, handsome alabaster vases others composed around small antiques, salt cellar or a miniature teapot. One particularly striking bouquet, formal and tall, consists of blue iris, white carnations, daphne blossoms, occasional sprigs of leaf and one or two sprigs of broom for emphasis.

Another, not quite so large, uses pale yellow carnations, some of the same variety, while carnations, yellow spires and a few sprigs of privet to heighten the other colors.

Incidentally, Mrs. Cotton has discovered that many women will not have a trailing ivy vine in any arrangement. Ivy, unless it's rooted and in a pot of earth, is supposed to stick its neck where it's inside a house. If such matters do not concern you, Mrs. Cotton will use ivy if you like.

The large arrangements are suited to a formal, traditional home, but the little ones can be charming anywhere. One of them, only four inches high, emerges from a silver tray strained over a saucer. Another is a child's tea set. (Most of these miniature bouquets are composed of cotton and velvet flowers that cannot be washed.) In these tiny clusters you'll find carnations, forget-me-nots, sprigs of delphinium.

The flowers used in your own arrangements depend on the colors you want. You give Mrs. Cotton a general idea of color, size and shape, and she will buy the flowers, search antique shops for just the right containers, wash them, dry them, and then, if you like, arrange the flowers on their stems, rotoform base and even re-arrange them after you've given them a bath. Talk over your plans with her by calling WA 4-0666.

For Smith, that Smith College Club auction is here again. When you go to Miss Fine's gym this

Here Come The Clowns

Shoppers who are footsore and thirsty and quite possibly cold and wet, too, will find a pleasant sanctuary in the rear of Viedt's 110 Nassau.

The back parlor of the restaurant has been re-decorated and christened "The Circus Lounge." Its striped plywood walls are now a cheerful shade of light green. Hand-painted framed oils of circus clowns hang from the walls and grin down at you while you eat your meal.

These clowns come from Pete Borute of Trenton, the artist who painted the tiger-Nassau mural in the rear of the shop. They are colorful and at least life-size. Even the sad ones look gay. Stop in and play art critic while you warm your cold toes.

Saturday, probably staying from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., when the last gavel sounds, you'll find a variety that ranges from a brand new portable typewriter to an exquisite set of early 18th century French prints.

Those prints, two framed in gold and one in black, were bought in Paris many years ago. One of the pieces (valued one is the St. Denis gate) is the third is Versailles, with the King approaching by coach.

Dresden bowls, 12 inches across, is another item with a deep scallop edge on each corner. Each side shows a different fishing scene in white, gold and blue. You might stand it by itself on the Queen Anne pedestal table (the base is solid). This is a real Queen Anne table, not a reproduction.

One of the most interesting sets to be offered at auction is a collection of six Williamson flip plates. Each plate is ten inches high, and that's certainly a lot of sherry flip. If that's what the "flip" stands for. The Smith Club has a number of these plates, not for flip, but for flowers because they are vase-shaped. A delicate design has been etched on the side of each glass.

Here is another piece of antique glass, a crystal gravy boat, heavy, sizeable and probably destined to be used for flowers.

Smith also offers, for anybody with desperate need for a conversation piece, a three-panel mirror. One panel goes over your mantel and one goes on each side. The glass is set in pine, checked with gold. Then there is a magnificent brass chandelier, high Baroque, with eight arms. French crystals and opalescent drops. Probably not for the rumpus room.

In the contemporary part of the catalogue, there's that type-writer we mentioned, a brand new Rotobroiler, a new Westinghouse toaster, an electric room heater with fan, a pressure canner, some pleasant white quilted headbands printed with red, pink and pale green carnations.

Take a Dress. Also a pair of Jamaica shorts, a suit and a soft sweater to shield you against soft tropical breezes. Buy them at Mayne Mead's and away you go.

Donald Banks has produced some distinguished ready-to-wear clothes for the Nassau Street shop. There is a sleeveless linen in a dark navy blue. It has a facing of multi-colored linen with 18 tiny buttonholes bordered with the same color. A rust jacket, hanging straight from a round, collarless neckline, completes the ensemble.

Natural and cafe au lait linen have been combined to make a straight dress whose Empire waist is marked with one-inch frills. The dress front closes on the diagonal with large round buttons.

It goes in at the hemline. That's a cotton after-five dress embellished with purple, violet and royal roses, all in fullest bloom.

Your after-dinner dress might be a Peter Pan collar. Its print is row upon row of sitting ducks in red, red, navy. There's a little something the same print.

One of the most eye-catching Meadow dresses is the eyelash print.

It's New To Us

It's a sleeveless white cotton with two rows of colored threads running diagonally across the shoulder to hemline. One row is reds and oranges, the other is greens and blues and the threads have been snipped off at regular intervals to look like — well, eyelashes.

Your sweater dress might be white shantung, soft printed with ovals and circles, or various colors, though it looks like a tropical print. The ovals and circles have been cut-out and applied to the white arlon sweater. This sweater is really a long bolero, without buttons.

A linen shorting sun-dress has wide straps, a square neck and short sleeve just cut with corners, which make it look like wide-eyed little blue and purple flowers printed its surface. Tiny sequins mark the closing. Jamming shorts are worn in Jamaica could be solid-color, of course, but why not a pair in heavy-duty cotton, enchantingly printed with salmon and violet paisley. There's another pair of shorts, done in a linen print of aqua and violet blobs. Comes in red, too.

It's Cold up North. Maybe down south, too, but we pass that by. Bailey's, in the Princeton Shopping Center, puts a cold red car to the ground and discovers that winter is definitely here.

Winter coats in this shop are made to be worn every day. They are ribbed poplin or wide-wide corduroy, most of them, with broad shawl collars lined with alpaca. The coats are lined with alpaca, too, in most cases.

These are Weatherbee coats that can be dry cleaned without losing their water repellent qualities. Coats are grey, navy, olive, beige, are sport or standard. Besides the corduroy, there is a black and white tweed with black alpaca collar and a camel-colored tweed with black alpaca.

Prices hover around $21.95-$29.95, depending on fabric and length.

Save this coat for a rainy day. It's 65 percent Dacron Zelar, which is a lightweight material to a hat, lined with plaid, priced at $1.95.

A no-iron cotton dress has long-fingered stripes of maize, grey and green. The three-quarter sleeves are full and banded (not cuffled) and the Peter Pan collar has a neat dove-tail at the sides.

In the maternity department at Baileys there are several interesting garments for all-season wear. Two of them feature a new engineering solution to the old expansion problem.

These dresses are one-piece with a very tight band from neckline to hem. At the waist, the plent has been stitched together for about eight inches. You rip out these stitches, then allow the full plent to extend all the way down the back. One such dress is pale sage green cotton, another is hunter green with white plaid. Both have those wide white collars that are supposed to fool people but never do.

A wrinkle-resistant two-piece cotton matinette dress comes in white with pin dots. It has short sleeves. Fine for spring, and in the fall, too.

For another kind of uniform, Baileys recommends a new all-dacron shirtwaist with roll-up sleeves, button-down collar, and a belt in either black or white as white ($14.95) and in wash-and-wear cotton as well as dacron ($14.95). In cotton, it is available in white only.

Correction. Through a typographical error, the wrong size was given for the $24 panel of pre-dressed Fiberglas insulation, available at The Building Center, Princeton. You can buy an 8 x 12 foot section of wall for this price.

$100,000 Question.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

At Sunday's Town Meeting it was evident that many local groups supported the Borough Council's determination to make suitable provision for the families living on Jackson Street who would be displaced under the Urban Renewal Project. However, no negotiations made by Mr. Sperling and Mr. Moore gave promise that if the whole community cooperates, a solution can be found which will avoid the unfortunate situations which have arisen in Clay Street.

Another serious problem not really considered at Sunday's meeting is that the Princetonian local people who would be deprived of their means of livelihood if their properties were condemned under a Federal Urban Renewal project.

If the Borough were to go ahead without federal funds, these properties would not have to be delivered to "The Developer," who will not buy them at a price without them. Giving up federal funds would, however, cost the Borough at least $100,000 more than the original estimate, which may consider seriously.

But can the Princeton community in conscience save this sum at the expense of these people? It is not that the people are unwilling to help or to obtain the expected security of owning the places in which they work? It is not that the people are not willing to pay for the street or any public benefit except cash saving. Unless they get proper consideration, who will feel safe in owning property in Princeton?

United Fund Gets Support.

THE OLD AND THE NEW: Tribute was paid this week to the two YMCA board members who have served longest and to the newest member. Dr. Franklin B. Bull (left) and the Rev. Dr. Charles R. Erdmann (center) are shown on the left; the newest board member, Dr. Kenneth B. Hawthrone, is in the most recent addition. Kenneth B. Hawthrone, president, and other board members spoke in their honor. (Richards Photo.)

Members of the Board of Directors of the Princeton YMCA agreed this week to contribute $1,000 each to the campaign solicitations for the United Community Fund. Walter H. Scott, director of the drive, told the board members that more $2,000 was needed for the fund to reach its goal.

The suggestion that the board members might be effective in helping the funders from Princeton to increase their giving, a director said, was met with a list of the 60 area residents who have not yet been contacted, and each board member agreed to contact some of the persons on the list.

The directors also said they would make increases in their individual pledges to the fund. The fund underwrites a large part of the YMCA budget.

Named to the Board of Trustees were Mrs. Percy Clark, Mrs. Herbert Bailey, Mrs. Sheldon Judson, Mrs. Peter Luck, Mrs. Thomas Cook, Mrs. Donaldson, Mrs. Ziesing and Mrs. Richard Colman. Members of the nominating committee are Mrs. Karl Behr, Mrs. Robert F. Gohene and Mrs. Alfred Chett Jr.

Mrs. Gilbert Lea, president of the board, reported that the school operated "in the black" during 1938. Expenses were kept within the budget and all expected revenues from the United Community Fund and tuitions were received, she said.

Mrs. Lea pointed out that "Princeton is fortunate to have a day nursery school equal or superior to any one in the institution in the state, yet at the same time operating at the lowest cost unit per child." She attributed "this paradoxical circumstance" to four factors:

- The school donated by the Matthews family in 1929, is owned outright.
- The teaching staff, headed by Evangeline Miller, "serves well beyond the call of duty."

• Gifts from friends of the school cut down "immeasurably" on expenses. Major donations last year came from the Piney Neck Community Club, the Needwork Guild, the Borough schools, the Presbyterian Church School, Miss Fine's School and the Board of Education.

• The Board of Trustees "gives unstintingly of their time and services," eliminating the need for paid employees in many cases.

Extensive repairs and redecorating of the school building at 78 Leigh Avenue were undertaken during this year. Mrs. Lea said that the new fire distinguishes, reworking major interior and exterior painting, and conversion of a basement room into a playroom, fully equipped with donated equipment.

FUND FOR THE PILLARS. Corporation Established. The Princeton Portion Fund, Inc., has been organized by the sons of New Jersey veterans of the Civil War. Its purpose is to raise money for the erection in Princeton Battlefield Park of the historic portico that was once part of the Maxwell House on Mercer Road.

Contributions to the Fund are tax deductible. They may be sent to Shirley W. Morgan, 18 Nassau Street.

EXTRA MAIL FEE DELAYED
Summerfield Agrees to Wait.
Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield has ordered indefinite suspension of a postal regulation which would impose a five cent penalty on all mail containing amounts of postage due—on mail with insufficient stamps. Summerfield's action came this week at the request of Rep. Edward H. Rees of Kansas, who has introduced a bill to kill the rule permanently.

The regulation was proposed by Congress last year, and went into effect January 1, 1959. Under authority contained in the law, Summerfield suspended it for six months on August 1, when postage rates were cut, so as not to provide a nuisance for mailers who were not used to the higher rates. The rule was scheduled to go back into effect February 1.

CHANGES PROPOSED

Student's Rework Constitution.
A number of changes in the United States Constitution have been accepted by Princeton University undergraduates studying "Modern America," under Professor George L. Goldman. The changes were suggested by the 25 top students in the course after weeks of study and voted upon by the entire course of 371 students.

Although they left the basic fabric of the document intact, 41 changes were recommended, and all but one of the proposed revisions were adopted. According to Professor Goldman, trends evident in the revised documents were strengthening of Federal over State power, of executive power over legislative power, and of civil liberties and civil rights.

The only important revision voted down was a provision to end filibusters. Principal changes accepted gave the President greater power to conduct foreign relations and to regulate foreign commerce. On the Senate side, nine judges abolished the electoral college, re-phrased the Bill of Rights to give more sweeping guarantees of freedom, and proposed a constitutional amendment to witness against himself in any government proceedings.

Especially timely changes were those pertaining to the procedure to be followed in case of illness of the President or the elimination of the President, Vice-President, and others in the line of Presidential succession. To prevent a recurrence of the Little Rock situation, the group voted a direct federal guarantee of non-segregated education through high school.

The 15 undergraduates who made the actual revisions were chosen on the basis of their mid-term examination marks and were excused from the final examination in the course. They met on separate evenings at the homes of preceptors to discuss changes and accepted the proposed changes by a two-thirds vote.

To conclude the "intellectual exercise," as Professor Goldman termed it, the entire course voted on each of the changes and then —Continued on Page 14

SIX LITTLE

TAILS

In the deep waters of the South Pacific surrounding New Zealand there lives a family of miniature LOBSTERS whose tails are renowned for their GOURMET appeal.

Those New Zealanders know a GOOD thing when they TASTE it and being enterprising folks, they are now making available a very LIMITED supply of these DELICIOUS creatures for the American market.

The King's Court has been most fortunate in obtaining a supply of these TASTY morsels. If you have not experienced this new taste SENSATION, may we suggest that you do so soon.

Our chef PAMPERS each baby tail in his own lemon and butter sauce, splits them down the middle, and gently places them over the CHARCOAL fire just long enough to turn them a crimson red. Then they are served with your choice of baked or French-fried potato, our special salad and blue cheese dressing . . . Truly a delectable treat for the most discriminating palate.

Good 1958 Harvest

New Jersey had a good harvest in 1958. According to statistics from the State Crop Reporting Service, total production was up 25%, from 1,257,600 even tons to 1,600 above 1956 when all-time records were set for several crops.

The total Gross State harvest of all crops was 4,722,000 tons, as compared to 1,964,000 tons in drought-ridden 1957 and 2,446,000 tons in 1956. These high yields made up somewhat for lower prices which prevailed for a number of crops.

Grain production was more than double the 1957 harvest, and the state has not been the leader since 1910 with the highest average per acre yield of any state east of the Mississippi. Although the 1958 vegetable crop was down on about 3,500 acres less than used for the 1957 crop, the output was up 16%. In fruit production an all-time record peach crop made up for lower apple production to give an overall 5% rise for the top six fruit crops.

YW PLANS TRAINING

For Switchboard and Desk. Those interested in learning to operate the switchboard and handle the information desk at the YM-YWCA can attend training sessions Tuesday and Wednesday at 8. Switchboard volunteers — present and future — will meet Tuesday while the information desk group will meet Wednesday at the Aviation Place building.

The two groups currently number nearly 100 and include wives of doctors, University professors and students. Teen-agers also handle these duties.

Mrs. Malcolm S. Jones Jr. is chairman of the volunteers with Mrs. William Voorhees serving as head of the information desk

PHS GIRLS ACCEPTED

College Acceptance Early. Six senior girls at Princeton High School have already been notified that they have been accepted at colleges. Under a new Early Admissions Program, Princeton applicants for early admissions and taking the College Boards in their junior year are notified of admission in early December rather than May of their senior year.

Already accepted are: Patricia Brink, Helen Harbison, Shirley Smith; Betty Dandeneau; Charlotte Slider, both scholarship-winners at Mount Holyoke; Marie Lewandowski at Douglass; and Lynne Weterau, who was granted a scholarship at Barnard.

THOSE POPULAR BOOKS

Easier To Get in Library. The Princeton Public Library has decided to a new rental service to improve its supply of new books for the period when they are in heavy demand. Under the new service, there will be a monthly turnover of 50 books and a complete turnover of the full 300 supplied every six months.

Supplying multiple copies of popular books, the library expects a large share of the book funds for books of relatively short-term interest, according to the library. Also, in the crowded home of the Princeton library, there is also the problem of finding extra copies after the demand subsides.

Books in the new service will be selected in accordance with library policy and will be loaned at the same three-months' rate as the current collection. The library book budget will only be spent for one copy of current books, which will circulate for only seven days while they are in demand, and will not be reserved.

TWO JOIN RCA STAFF

Both Are Physicists. Two physicists have joined the staff at RCA Laboratories at the David Sarnoff Research Center here. Ralph E. Simon, whose field is experimental physics, and Joseph A. Baicker, a specialist in nuclear physics, will both work in the physical and chemical research laboratory.

Mr. Baicker was graduated in 1950 from Yale and will receive his Ph. D. degree this February from Cornell. Mr. Simon graduated from Princeton in 1952 and is scheduled to receive his Ph. D. next June from Cornell.

UNITED WE STAND? It hasn't come to a point where either the Borough or Township school system will fall if the two don't band together, but Mrs. John Gulick (left) and Miss Cynthia Barker think consolidation of the two districts makes good sense. In their view, and others on the timely subject, see Question of the Week below.

Question of the Week

Question: Princeton's two school districts have announced they will study the possibilities of closer cooperation with an eye toward greater economy and improved educational advantages. Do you believe that this might be the first step toward eventual consolidated public school systems in Princeton?

Location: Around town.

Mr. John Gulick, 1000 Kingston Road, painter, said he thinks it's certainly something that's necessary, so you can say I hope it succeeds. The schools' bus systems alone show we need such consolidation. Consolidation would eliminate back-tracking; in other words, a waste of time, energy and tax money that could be spent elsewhere.

Henry A. Burger Jr., 834 Kingston Road, painter, I feel the consolidation of Princeton's school systems would be good. Five years ago, I voted against the large-scale consolidation measure for both communities. Now, I'm beginning to think it's a good idea. In the first place, I don't have any school children of my own; yet, I can see the economies in such a move. For one thing it would cut out the terrific cost of tuition. The Township is now paying the Borough for high school students.

Miss Cynthia Barker, 32 Vandever Avenue, secretary-bookkeeper: I haven't lived in Princeton long enough to give you a knowledgeable answer. I came from New Jersey and learned about the Borough-Township set-up and the dual departments that this set-up makes necessary. I'd say consolidation of school systems would be a good idea. The combination would save money, and probably foster better schools.

Mrs. William S. Field, 25 Broadripple Drive, housewife: It's very hard to say at this time whether consolidation of the two school districts would be advantageous or not. Consolidation involves a good deal more than just the desire to make one or two buildings do for a greater number. It's a question of time and we don't know the pros and cons of that until the study has been completed.

If the figures show that either the Borough or the Township has been given a disproportionate burden of any proposed new system, then consolidation would be rejected — just as the merging of the two municipalities was rejected five years ago. So, until the preliminary study has been completed and final figures are down in black-and-white, it would be impossible to give an answer to the question.

Old Subject, New Phase

Consolidation of Princeton's two municipalities, voted down by the citizenry in the fall of 1953, became a hotly-discussed topic in conversation between Borough and Township this past week. Several different forces combined to put the controversial matter back in the news.

At the same time, Dean Donald E. J. MacNamara, in his thorough survey of the Borough Police Department, and Messrs. Graham and William Johnson, in a joint statement from the presidents of both school boards, touched heavily on the consolidation question. Mr. MacNamara recommended consolidation of the two selected forces, while the board presidents announced plans to study the possibility of a merger of the two school districts.

Montgomery consolidation was still a major item of concern for the governing bodies of both municipalities. Township Committeeman Stanley C. Scott, in statement concerning recent remarks about the status of the Joint Library Bill and Borough Council President Don D. Coyle mentioned several aspects of consolidated effort in outlining objectives of his Committee for the Future of Princeton.

Mrs. Evan A. Hanley, 8 Sergeant Street, employee at Bellows: I think any close cooperation between the school systems would be good, especially if their working together can help out the fruitful. Whether consolidation would be beneficial, I can't really say since I am a newcomer to Princeton. I have been here about one year and don't know the town very well as yet. Coming from a large city, though, I've found it's taken me awhile to get used to the division within the town.

Mrs. George F. Karch, 65 Palmer Avenue, housewife: I know very little about the situation since I have no children in school here. However, I do feel that consolidation of the school systems would be good especially with the rapid growth of the college population. As the difficulties and problems increase, it will be more and more important for the two boards to work together to solve them.

CONCERT PIANIST: Dame Myra Hess will play in McCarter Monday night.

MUSIC In Princeton

MYRA HESS WILL PLAY
Second Concert in Series I.

Dame Myra Hess, renowned British pianist, will play in McCarter Theatre at 8:30 p.m. The second concert in Series I of the Princeton University Concerts, it has been chosen "Maria Prentiss Memorial Concert" for the season.

In tribute to Mrs. Prentiss' aversion to music in Princeton.

In recent years, Dame Myra has devoted much of her time and talents to the great classics of piano literature, from Bach to Brahms. Her program reflects this interest.

She will play Bach's Prelude and Fugue in E Major, Book II, No. 1; Prelude and Fugue in B Minor, Book II, No. 24 and the Toccata in D Major. Mozart's Sonata in C, Minor, K. 457 will follow.

After Schubert's Sonata in A Major, Op. 120 and Beethoven's Sonata in A-Flat Major, Op. 110. In 1939, Myra Hess organized a series of performances which were held in the deserted National Gallery in London. For six years, during the London blitz, these concerts gave comfort and encouragement to many musicians. In recognition of her work, King George VI conferred upon her the Order of the British Empire, which carries with it the title of "Dame."

Each year, the Princeton University Concerts directors choose one concert in the year to be "Maria Prentiss Memorial Concert." Mrs. Prentiss was a member of the Ladies Music Committee which later became the Princeton University Concerts Committee. During the days of Mrs. Prentiss' activity in musical fields, Dame Myra appeared often in Princeton for concerts and the concert committee feels that it is particularly appropriate to designate Monday night's concert as the Memorial for Mrs. Prentiss.

Mrs. Prentiss raised a sum of money which was added to the Philanthropic Fine Memorial Fund. This endowment and the Jessie Penrhody Frothingham Memorial Fund make it possible to bring to Princeton musical organizations and artists of high caliber. Since Mrs. Prentiss' death, her family has added to the endowment.

All seats for the Dame Myra Hess concert have been sold. Standing room for 50 will be sold at $1.50 starting at 7:30 p.m. on the evening of the concert. It is not possible to reserve standing room in advance.

WARFIELD WILL SING

In Benefit Concert. The harrowing illness which has often critics referring to him as "one of the greatest artists of this or any other generation," will give a concert at McCarter Theatre on Thursday, February 26. He will sing under the sponsorship of the Friendship Club of Princeton. Tickets for his concert are available at the University store for $4.50.

Warfield has appeared with major symphony orchestras and oratorio societies, and he has also sung in musical comedy, folk opera, and television. He played "Joe" in a movie version of "Showboat," and "Porgy" in "Porgy and Bess."

Critics have written frequently of his versatility as a singer. He gives an Italian song the lyrical air he can sing that the form requires, and to German under the matinée coat of his wife's slender figure. In his performances with many chamber music groups as an interpreter of Bach, he sings spirituals with a quality which one critic referred to as "prodigious."

JEWISH MUSIC

Featured on Hadassah Program Jewish Music Week will be compositions by John Marion of the Princeton Chapter of Hadassah, the Women's Division of the Princeton Jewish Center and B'nai B'rith. The meeting will be held next Saturday, January 28 at 8:30 p.m. at the Jewish Center.

Concert Marshall Glazier of Haf Sinai Temple, Trenton, will present a program of music, accompanied by Mrs. William Peckham at the piano. He has appeared with the Trenton Symphony and has made many appearances in concert, on radio and television.

Mrs. Thomas Stix, Hadassah program chairman and Mrs. Norman Denard, education chairman, have arranged an exhibit of recordings and books on Jewish music.

MUSIC CLUB WILL MEET

Piano and Vocal Program Set. A piano and vocal program set will be performed when the Princeton Music Club meets next Wednesday at 8:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. A. N. Spaniel. Solo artists will be William Maselli, pianist; Rachel Armstrong, contralto; Fadiou Sh. Hassan, soprano; and Maria Pacsu and Janet Wells, accompanists. The hostesses for the meeting will be Mrs. Lester V. Plum, Mrs. Donald Rugg and Mrs. Chester Stroud.

NEW STUDIO OPENS

For Piano Students. Sylvia Foodim Glickman, formerly of the faculty of New England Conservatory of Music, announced the opening of a piano studio in Princeton. Students who are interested may reach her at W. 47-2722.

A newcomer to Princeton, Mrs. Glickman is a graduate of the Juilliard School of Music where she studied with Beveridge Webster and with Dr. Walter Craxton at the Royal Academy of Music, London, in 1955-56 on a Brightwell Grant. She received the R.A.M. degree, making her a Licentiate of the Royal Academy, and she won the Hecht Award in composition.

IT FIGURES

"The Zest of Discovery" How often does it happen that a child in an ordinary arithmetic class is seized by the spirit of mathematical exploration and carried away to make new and exciting discoveries on his own?

Not teachers say wistfully, very often. The gifted child, the one with that delightful something called "high quantitative aptitude," is frequently bored by arithmetic. An average child is either hopelessly baffled or dulled by drill.

Believing that math can be made interesting, even fascinating, the School Mathematics Study Group sponsored by the National Science Foundation, has established 12 mathematics study centers which last July started to offer seventh and eighth graders a new math curriculum. One of these is the Princeton Center, composed of Bordentown Township schools, Miss Fine's, and West Windsor. Other centers have been established at the University of Arizona, Chicago, Colorado, Delaware, Louisville, Michigan, Milwaukee and in the communities of Brookline, Massachusetts; Pasadena, California; Seattle, Washington and Westport, Connecticut.

Each center is experimenting with a group of teaching units in seventh and eighth grade math. Most of the material covered is familiar, but units are presented from an entirely new point

Are You Literate?

"Every citizen, whether he uses mathematics vocationally or not, must be mathematically literate."

That is the goal of the National Science Foundation's new seventh and eighth grade math program, and to give parents an idea of what mathematical literacy means today, Town Topics poses a few posers based on the new experimental test.

1. Explain what is meant by associative, commutative and distributive laws.

2. What is the number 1165, using a base of seven instead of ten? Is 12 odd or even in a base of seven?

3. Should we consider 0/0 to be a number and why or why not?

4. What bunch do you have about common multiples when compared with the least common multiple?

5. Try to prove Goldbach's Conjecture (that every even number greater than two is the sum of two prime numbers). Nobody has proved it in the two centuries since Goldbach thought it up, but eighth graders are willing to give it another try.)

of view, and with a wholly new emphasis.

"This is a completely mathematical approach to arithmetic," says Dr. William D. Purcell, assistant superintendent of Princeton Township schools and chairman of the Princeton Center. "Instead of teaching rules, we show the pupils that a mathematician proves every statement he makes in numbers by logical reasoning."

The teacher leads the children to reach conclusions independently and often requires that pupils deduce deductive arguments to show that a given principle is true.

A boy or girl with mathematical aptitude soon learns to work out short-cuts, to do a lot of stuff in his head, and to think "mathematically." Dr. Purcell continues: "The child who in basic quantitative learns the basics he'll need when he's grown up."

Phew! What Numbers! There are 14 units in the course of study. Princeton schools began the first one "What is mathematics and why you need to know it" the week after Christmas.

Now they are going on with Numeration, The Natural Numbers and Zeros, Factoring and Prime and Composite Rational Numbers, Non-metric Geometry, two sections of Informal Geometry, Measurement and Approximate Mathematics at Work in Science, Uncle Sam as a Statistician, Change, Mathematical Systems and Divisibility.

The concept of "power" and the use of numbers within parentheses, neither of which has previously been introduced, are taught at the eighth grade. Factoring and the use of roots have always been taught as somewhat more advanced for this age. These operations are apparently not too difficult for average 12-year-olds to grasp.

The concept of "average" over the last year begins to wonder about other bases. How about a base of three and if not why not? Next: the binary system.

Radical Literacy. Future lessons will introduce "sets" and the intersection of sets, the complete quadrilateral and Desargues' theorem. These exercises in geometric geometry are designed to develop the pupil's vocabulary, encourage him to make simple, direct statements of mathematical properties, and give him experience in the use of mathematical language.

The section on non-negative numbers makes the point that the students themselves should do the reasoning: "Definitions of equality, sum and product should be on the basis of experimental work on the part of the student," and again, "The students should devise the short-cut. The short-cut should not be devised for them."

In a recent article to the finding the simplest name of a fraction: "Do not let students calculate or make any marks relevant of that process; the essence of the procedure is removal of the unit factor."

"The exciting thing about these radical new lessons," says Dr. Princeton, "is that even children in low math sections are stimulated and aroused. A girl who has never seen the bottom of her eighth-grade arithmetic book has learned pure mathematics in a most astonishing way. And classes that were plugging along with fractions and bonds now seem to do income--why, it's just like a whole new world! It's such a paradox, the old income-tax-stock market curriculum was so much more interesting to ninth-grade children because it was practical, and actually this pure mathematical theory has infinitely more appeal."

So far, most of the new units are being taught in eighth grade. Seventh graders are included in the project, but, in the words of Dr. Princeton, "we want to make sure that seventh graders get the foundation they'll need, so most of our work is with eighth graders."

After this academic year, each participating school in each of the 12 centers will write a report and make suggestions. Then the experimental curriculum will be worked over next summer and presented again in the fall.

"The students should have as much experience as necessary... so that they will formulate for themselves the conclusions stated (here)," the teacher's guide says. "The zest of discovery should never be lost."

The zest did not die, apparently. The only puzzled minds seem to be parental. "Did you have any trouble with your homework?" one teacher asked a pupil. "No," the girl. "My only trouble was explaining it to my mother."

SMITH AUCTION SATURDAY

Princeton, N.J. Committees are completing final arrangements for the 10th annual Smith College Club Auction that will be held this Saturday from 10 to 4 in the Smith College Gymnasium.

Miss Gordon Knox, manager of the Club, and Mr. George C. Staloff of Trenton will again be auctioneer. Homemade cakes, pies and cookies will be sold and refreshments will be served.

Smith College members, townspeople and owners of Princeton stores have contributed a wide variety of items which will be offered at the auction. Donations, which are tax deductible, will be received by the Club until the day of the auction.

Mrs. John Davies is general chairman and Miss Betsy Mariani is assisting her as head of the telephone committee. Members of this committee are Mrs. Joann Blodgett, Mrs. E. T. M. S. W. Stanley Brown, Mrs. William F. Chamberlin, Miss Ruth H. Chester, Mrs. Lincoln H. Day and Mrs. Edward Goldstein.

Report from THE MAYOR

Prov'g a Point. Sunday afternoon's special meeting of Mayor and Council may not have provided answers to all the questions raised in its agenda, but it served to underscore a line in the Mayor's annual message on New Year's Day: "We have encouraged citizen participation at meetings but we have found it hard for them to participate effectively." There were not chairs enough space enough in Borough Hall and Council chambers for the invitation of our Tri-Town neighbors to use their auditoriums.

No Easy Answers. Sunday's meeting demonstrated again that there are no easy, push-button answers to the complicated human and environmental problems involved in the community's continuing undertaking in the John-Wither-spoon area. The Mayor remains convinced, however, that the thorough airing of the problems and the airing of the various alternatives presents the only constructive approach to finding acceptable solutions.

It is helpful when frank discussions among citizens clarify their thinking, sharpen their goals, document their proposals, and subject their views to the wholesome process of exchange with those who accept the opportunity to state their objections to an important public undertaking.

Looking Ahead. The Finance Committee of Borough Council will spend some long hours with the Mayor and Borough Clerk over the coming weeks in reviewing the budget requests of the various departments and making the tough decisions that will be reflected in a budget for 1959. Budget date for the presentation of the budget — is January 28. Then the budget is published in advance of a public hearing on its contents.

Business and Pleasure. During the past week, the Mayor had an opportunity to talk with many of the Borough police officers about the recommendations contained in the survey report of Dean Donald MacNamara.

On Saturday evening, the Mayor and his wife were the guests of Borough and Township police officers and their wives at a dinner party sponsored by the local unit of the Pennsylvania Benevolent Association. Of course, not all the men of this important Borough department could attend the fine social event, but the Mayor reminded that this is one of the vital municipal services that must be manned 24 hours of every day throughout the year.

Rabies Control. The Borough Attorney has been asked to work out the details of a proposed new ordinance on inoculation of dogs against rabies.

The Board of Health presented some specific recommendations at last week's regular meeting of the Council. There were also technical presentations to the Mayor and Councilman Lester, the Council Representative to the Board of Health, will confer with Township authorities and other interested citizens in shaping the outlines of an important policy.

Host to the League. On February 11, Princeton Borough will be host to the Mercer County League of Municipalities' monthly dinner meeting. This group includes elected and appointed officials and career staff of all Mercer municipalities.

Last Wednesday, the Princeton Borough Mayor was the speaker at the League's annual meeting at Hunterdon Township and was encouraged by the presence of six Borough stalwarts: Borough Clerk Mooney, Attorney McCarthy, Deputy Collector, Treasurer, Fire Officer Blaize, Assistant Engineer Albrecht, and the new member of the Zoning Board, former Councilman Farr.

"Tell It to the Mayor!" Again this week the regular open house session will be held on Thursday evening from 7 to 10 p.m. at Borough Hall. These weekly sessions are informal, and no appointment is ever required.

The final January session will be next Thursday, January 29. In February, the weekly meetings will be held on Fridays throughout the month.

The meeting will be held at 8:15 p.m. at the home of Mr. and George Thomas, 21 Elm Road.

A panel of alumnae will discuss the subject. Those participating will be Miss Clara Ludwig, director of admissions at Mount Holyoke; Miss Mary Meeker of George School, Newtown, Pa.; and Miss Mary Tuttle, former president of the Alumnae Association of Mount Holyoke. All Mount Holyoke alumnae in the Trenton-Princeton area are invited to attend the meeting. Anyone who is interested in attending should call Mrs. Benjamin Houston, 27 Rendom Road.

BENEFITS IN A DAY'S WORK In addition to the other advantages, Educational Testing Service got the benefit of a good time when it moved its quarters from downtown Princeton to Rosedale Road. One day this past week, three ETS employees—left to right, Nancy Ross, Natalie Lysy and Beverly Gleaner—enjoyed their luncheon-skating break "a great deal." Novice Julie Fenton was all smiles, but her complete enjoyment was doubtful. At any rate, many ETS staffers are having a ball on their own rink this winter. (Town Topics Photo by Alan Richards)

RCA BREAKS GROUND

For $800,000 additional, another addition to the ever-expanding RCA Laboratories on U.S. 1 ("Research Row")—this one, an $800,000 project—got under way this past week, and is scheduled for completion sometime late in the year. A two-story, red brick structure, in keeping with the rest of the sprawling RCA facilities, the current development will house the new Advanced Military Systems organization, and also will provide more space for the growing research needs of RCA Laboratories.

While new building construction of the addition which will be a new wing adjoining laboratory 3 (the separate, smaller building in back of the main RCA headquarters), the staff of AMS will occupy 2,630 square feet of office space in a recently renovated, modern Griffin & Moore building at 201 Nassau Street. A total of 25 persons will make use of a large conference room on the first floor, the other 20 on the Telephone building, while a larger area on the second floor will be divided into 15 offices.

A spokesman for RCA said his company will continue to lease the space at 201 Nassau, even after AMS has moved into its permanent quarters at the main plant. Though no definite plans have been prepared, he said he expects the downtown space will be utilized by study groups, including visiting researchers.

AMS is not a subdivision of RCA Laboratories, he stressed, but rather a separate division of Defense Electronic Products, whose job it is to conceive of systems, not actually make them. AMS' aim is to create and develop new and advanced weapon systems concepts, he added.

Postal Receipts Jump

The Princeton Post Office grossed $975,247 during 1958 and receipts are expected to increase even more next year. Last year there were over a million dollars in postage, Postmaster Charles F. Murray reports.

The 1958 gross was $13,474 higher than the preceding year's, comprising a five-year trend of annual increases of approximately $100,000. The picture:

1954 - - -	$518,233
1955 - - -	$612,241
1956 - - -	$763,172
1957 - - -	$861,773

100% DIVIDEND VOTED

Stockholders Must Approve. The Princeton Bank and Trust Company's Board of Directors has voted to grant a 100% stock dividend to all stockholders. The decision will take effect if stockholders approve the necessary amendment to the company's certificate of incorporation at their annual meeting on Tuesday.

The stock dividend would increase the capital stock of the company from $350,000, divided into 35,000 shares with a par value of $10 per share, to $700,000, divided into 70,000 shares of the same par value. The company has been advised by counsel that the additional shares would not constitute taxable income for the stockholders.

The additional $350,000 of stock value would be obtained by transfer of that amount from surplus account to capital stock account. After such a shift, the capital structure of the bank would be as follows:

Capital stock ...	$ 700,000
Surplus ...	$ 1,000,000
Undivided profits ...	$ 300,000

Total ..... $2,000,000

The increased number of shares is expected to result in a wider market for the bank's stock and eventually in a larger number of shareholders. Persons holding shares as of the close of business on January 14 are eligible to vote on the proposed dividend, either personally or by proxy.

Net savings in the association increased by $1,240,600 during the year. Total dividends of $17,651.12 were paid to members. Reserves were increased to levels exceeding Federal requirements.

FUND DECLARATES DIVIDENDS

For the period January 1 to December 31, the Directors of the Nassau Fund declared a dividend of 29 cents a share as the final payment to shareholders for 1958. The dividend, payable to those who held shares on December 31, 1958, represents all income and realized capital gains of the fund.

On January 5, shares of the fund were valued at $11.70 per unit of $1,650. At December 31, 1957, the total assets were $1,076,310.32. Total dividend payments for 1958 amounted to 63 cents per share.

MARSH'S HONORED

Prescription for $1,000,000

March and Co. has joined a small group of American drug stores which can claim to have compounded over two million prescriptions. The 100-year-old drug store at 39 Nassau Street, originally established in 1858, could not have been included in large ledgers, but later they were simply impled on long spindles.

These spindles are now stored in a cabinet book about six feet high. Each spindle has been turned into a shaggy gray cylinder by frequent searchers for a particular prescription to make a return.

Miss Marguerite McClellan, secretary treasurer of the firm and granddaughter of the founder, has replaced the spindles with a card-filled system where prescriptions are now kept. Miss McClellan is the only member of the founder's family directly connected with the store, and she shares responsibility with Mehmet Lander, president of the firm.

NEW LAB HEAD NAMED

Marcus Will Lead FMC Unit. S. Marcus Will has been appointed administrator of the central research laboratory of the Food Machinery and Chemical Corporation on U.S. 1 in Princeton. He will replace Dr. William L. Dorn, who has been general director of the company's activities in the field of rocket propellants.

The appointments were announced by Dr. Emil Ott, the firm's vice president in charge of research and development, chemical divisions. Mr. Marcus, who has been given full charge of business management of FMC central research, will supervise both the Princeton lab and the company's special projects lab at Buffalo, N.Y. His offices will be in Princeton.

Mr. Marcus assisted in the planning and construction of the Princeton unit and he has been involved in its operations since it opened in August, 1956. Holder of B.S. and M.S. degrees in chemical engineering from the Carnegie Institute of Technology, he has been with FMC for 20 years. His home is at 1512 Stuyvesant Avenue in Trenton.

FIRM LISTS DIVIDENDS

Surber General Devices Admits General Dividends. Inc., specialists in mechanical and electronic switching methods and telemetering systems, exceeded its sales goal of $1 million in 1958, John F. Brinster, president, reports. The firm has declared an eight percent stock dividend plus a cash dividend of five cents per share payable January 3 to all shareholders on record as of January 15.

In addition, Mr. Brinster announced the company has contributed the equivalent of one month of each employee's wages to its Employee's Profit Sharing Plan.

PRESENTATION MARKS TWO MILLIONTH PRESCRIPTION: March and Co. received a plaque Monday from Lederle Laboratories in honor of its two-millionth prescription, filled during its centennial year. Left to right are Oscar Goldman of Lederle; Miss Marguerite McClellan, secretary-treasurer of March's; manager Leonard Caputi; and M. A. O'Callaghan, Lederle sales representative.

which then included chemicals, painkillers and seed in addition to drugs.

Records of the two million prescriptions are preserved in the back of the store's quarters at 39 Nassau Street. Originally, they would be copied or transferred into large ledgers, but later they were simply impled on long spindles. These spindles are now stored in a cabinet book about six feet high. Each spindle has been turned into a shaggy gray cylinder by frequent searchers for a particular prescription to make a return.

Miss Marguerite McClellan, secretary treasurer of the firm and granddaughter of the founder, has replaced the spindles with a card-filled system where prescriptions are now kept. Miss McClellan is the only member of the founder's family directly connected with the store, and she shares responsibility with Mehmet Lander, president of the firm.

SION PLAN. The First Trenton National Bank has been named and the firm expects to double its sales in 1959.

Professor William M. Surber of the Department of Electrical Engineering of Princeton University has been appointed consultant to General Devices. Known for his work in the fields of microwave measurements, power feeding, control systems, Professor Surber holds a B.S. degree in physics from the University of Richmond and both the M.S. and Ph. D. degrees from Princeton.

AT MANALAPAN LAKE DEVELOPMENT. A three-bedroom, split-level model home went on display this week at the Manalapan Lake Estates on Hill Acre Road, Jamesburg. The new model, priced at $16,890, joins the six ranch-style houses already shown at the development.

The 120-house Manalapan Lake community is being erected by the Pama Construction Co. of Spotswood, Middlesex, R.R. Co. On North Brinster is the sales agent. Veterans are entitled to 100 percent mortgages in the development, while non-veterans must make a minimum down payment of $650.

NEW BLOWER ANNOUNCED

The two-speed blower features an extra-quiet air delivery of 800 cubic feet per minute at high speed of 600 c.f.m. at low.

It has a 10-inch diameter filter, stainless steel grill and gray hamertone-finish case. Specifications on the blower and other packaged cooling units can be obtained by writing the laboratories. A 1958 catalogue is also available.

TIGERS LEAD RACE

Top Dartmouth by Half Game. A pair of weekend victories over Columbia and Cornell moved Princeton's basketball team into first place in the Ivy League. The Tigers will stay there alone until a week from Saturday, when Dartmouth has a chance to catch them by beating Brown at Providence.

Ivies are that Princeton will match the Indians game for game until the two teams clash head on at Hanover on February 21. The first contest between the teams is set for Dillon Gym just six days later.

Oddy, a year ago, the home team won each game, with Dartmouth earning a 75-58 triumph here but failing victim to a weak letter to one of the Tigers' standout defensive performances. The Orange and White held the Indians to 55-50, their only loss at Hanover last year and the lowest point total they made in 27 games.

Princeton's problem is to achieve victory on courts where it has had trouble in recent years—notably Providence and Cambridge. It will be well to remember for the Tigers a trip to play the Red at the weekend of February 6 and 7.

After weak Columbia and Cornell quintets come here the

"THE HAWK" Jim Brangan, Princeton Junior, shows the profile that has earned him that nickname as his dead-eye shooting has put him in the lead in the Ivy League's scoring race. Brangan's 97-point five-game total has been enough to help him turn back all five Ivy opponents by margins of 9 to 22 points.

following Friday and Saturday, February 13 and 14, the all-important journey to northern New England is on the horizon. The other Harvard invasion, the Orange and Black faces Harvard at Cambridge and any tendency to look ahead to the game with Dartmouth could result in the Tigers getting knocked off before they meet the Indians.

New York Was Successful. The steady play of big Joe Burns, supplementing good performances on an alternating basis by Jim Brangan and Carl Belz, provided a winning formula for the Tigers against Columbia and Cornell. The Lions, as bad as 1-12 on the season and winless in Ivy action, surprised by giving Princeton more trouble than Cornell.

In New York, after Columbia had erased a 36-28 half-time deficit to take a brief 47-56 lead, at that point, the Tigers saw the ball go to Belz, who, after a wild pass and ill-advised shooting, replaced it with a brand of ball good enough to outscore the home forces 16 to 3 in the next four minutes.

That made it 61-51 and although both Burns and Carl Belz fouled out, the margin was sufficient to provide Princeton its third straight victory over Columbia on the latter's court. Brangan was held to six field goals on 19 shots, while Belz had 12, but Princeton's Cornell score sheet Saturday had five, as Jordan collected 63 per cent of his team's total.

Burns not only chipped in with a dozen points but grabbed 20 rebounds to bring his total to an odd number. The latter took only three shots from the floor and was held to seven points, but Art Klein with 13 and Herm Belz with 11 gave the Princetonians four men in double figures.

Cornell Fades Early. At Ithaca, Cappy Cappo's forces twice tossed in 11 straight points spurring to leads of 15-3 and 46-33. Before the first period was over, the Red had closed to 35-31 but Princeton regained control of the action with a 12-12 run during most of the second period.

Captain Lou Jardan was the only gun for the home forces.

Getting 33 points to increase his average of less than 20 per game in five meetings with Princeton in 1956. The next player on the Cornell score sheet Saturday had five, as Jordan collected 63 per cent of his team's total.

Meanwhile, Carl Belz hit for 32 to offset Jordan's spree, the figure being the Tiger's best in a year. Burns raised his total to 16 and between them, the two controlled the backboards in steady fashion.

Princeton compiled a fine 41 per cent floor average at Ithaca and again gave evidence of the type of defensive play it must have if its title bid is to remain serious. The Tigers did not see action again until a week from Saturday, when an improved Rutgers quintet takes the Dillon Gym floor at 4:30. The Orange and Black won last month at New Brunswick, 70 to 47.

HOCKEY TEAM TOPPED

Alumni Show Out at Hanover. A 2000 lb. John McBride with seven seconds left was all that kept Princeton's helter-skelter hockey team from being shut out at Hanover Saturday. All that kept the final score from being higher than 5 to 1 was a sophomore goalie Barry Van Gerbig.

For the uninitiated, saves generally average around 30 per game, and rarely go as high as 40. Against three opponents — Michigan State, St. Lawrence and Dartmouth, the Princetoners have kicked out a total of 151 shots, so that anything less than a series of standout performances by the 20 year old St. Paul's alumnus would have pained defeats on the Tigers far up in double figures.

Dartmouth, a good team in each of the first two periods and then followed with three goals in the last, McBride's solo effort came at 19:53 and ranked as his 16th goal of the season.

It kept all three kinds of having scores or assisted in every game but one that Princeton has played this season, unusually prolific ability that has placed him among the scoring leaders in the east. That's quite an achievement.

OTHER SPORTS

One-Sized Results. It was feast or famine for most Princeton winter sports teams last week. For example:

- John Conroy's squash team split the M.I.T. and Cornell, 9-4 and 6-1, while the water polo were trounced by Lehigh, 10-2, and the track team lost to Navy, 87-22.
- The swimmers beat Columbia, 47-38, but were beaten by Cornell, 65-21. N.Y.U. topped the fencing team, 15-12, as all teams shut down activity for the term end exam period.

PHS LOSES AGAIN

Ewing On Top, 55-50. Princeton High's only home night game of the current basketball season proved the popularity of such evening events. The Little Tigers get ready to watch the Little Tigers meet their intra-county rivals from Ewing. Both clubs responded by playing interesting if not high-calibre, ball — and the game was forced into overtime before the visiting Devils finally won with a late flourish, 55-50.

That the two Mercer fives were evenly matched is reflected in their identical records following the heating contest (2-4), the necessity of an overtime period and the fact that the lead changed hands six times with the game in doubt all the way. The Club's return match in Ewing the night of February 10 should be well worth the 10-mile trip.

In Friday's encounter, the Blue Devils got off to a shaky start and led 13-10 at the end of a quarter, but only after the score had been tied four times. Tony Cuccia's regulation 10 minutes in eight minutes, however, PHS leave the floor with a tenuous 29-27 halftime advantage, and that margin held up as both teams had played in crazy the third period, scoring 10 points apiece. Opening the scheduled final round, Princeton tallied five straight points and seemed to have matters sewed up, when Ewing retaliated with eight in a row to retake the lead. Two foul shots by Boccanfuso were needed to keep the game into overtime at 44-44.

Doug (Motorcycle) Hayes hit on a jump shot to provide Princeton with a short-lived overtime edge, then the Little Tigers ran out of gas and the Blue Devils took over for keeps. Dick Ritter, who had 16 points, was the big gun for the winners, though Boccanfuso managed high-point honors with 18. Sophomore Jim Barbour was the other Little Tiger in double figures, with 10.

Still refusing to follow suit, the Princeton Jayvees defeated Ewing's juniors, 50-45, to afford Cuccia's junior some hope for next year's varsity; Bill Crandall netted 13 points to pace the triumph.

The Friday, the Little Tigers will play the night shift in South River, and next Tuesday afternoon they will meet Somerville —Continued on Page 26

THE COUNTRY DAY SCHOOL HOCKEY TEAM

Shortly after 2 o'clock last Saturday, a 28-game winning streak that Princeton County Day School compiled over a 10-year period was broken. The streak came to an end under unusual circumstances, such an event is rarely cause for commiseration and not congratulations but in this instance, the PCD skaters fully merit a round of applause.

A factor in Country Day's 1-0 defeat at the hands of the Taft School juniors was a game in which players just six hours earlier, who had actually finished just before the sun rose, leaving Princeton for its annual two-day invasion of Connecticut, or from Pottstown ran into rain, sleet and snow that made use of the outdoor rink at the Kent School impossible.

By the time the mixed precipitation ceased, it was 9 p.m. While Kent boys studied for Saturday classes, PCD players scraped the ice and next morning at 5:30 hours were dressed for a game that was played under lights and the stars.

Paced by Captain Steve Cook with three goals and an assist other goals were credited to Charles Sturtevant, Mac McManamy, Bill Smoyer and Nick Hale), Country Day topped the opposition, 7 to 1. Played in 15-degree temperature, the game ended as the day began.

A 40-mile drive to Westerly followed and at 12:30 Country Day was on the ice again to face the PCD outfit. The home forces had to put up a fine performance by the visitors' goalie and a lone shot that bounded into the Blue and White's cage made the difference. On the Taft team were several sophomores (a year older than PCD seniors) from a squad whose varsity career had trimmed the Princeton freshmen.

The long winning streak came to an end because Coon-try Day stuck eagerly to its policy of hunting out opponents in New Jersey, Connecticut and Pennsylvania where a combination of boarding school students and local amateurs here makes it impossible for other teams to come to Princeton. If Coach Lester Ibbins can schedule as many as possible games outside the state, he will be pleased away from home. This Saturday, the Blue and White will travel to Connecticut again, with New Canaan Country Day as the foe. February 10th, the team will journey to Pottstown, Pa., to face HHSI school juniors and possibly to other games in Philadelphia and northern New Jersey.

Country Day players were anything but downcast over the end of their 28-game streak, one of them commenting, "We'll just have to start again. In our next game we'll be more general about what hockey is all about; all the time and travel required to play a full schedule are a part of long-standing PCD tradition.

Croydon Hall here, however, the visitors used their height advantage throughout the game and succeeded in building up a big margin. In the losing cause, Captain Tom Horwitz hit for 14 markers and Alan Frank contributed 10.

Against George School in a game played in Pennsylvania, Petrone was held to seven points and only some spirited play by all hands in another, Hun School's basketball team lost a pair of contests in three days' time last week. Petrone, in addition, will play a formidable win streak of 32, 26, a trick a week ago, 78-19, while George School dropped the Red and Blue to a 20-21 record Saturday with a 21-19 victory.

Petrone's fine output, his only double-figure exhibition since the Christmas holidays, came against the Croydon Hall team, however, the visitors used their height advantage throughout the game and succeeded in building up a big margin. In the losing cause, Captain Tom Horwitz hit for 14 markers and Alan Frank contributed 10.

This Friday at 3 p.m., in the Seminary gym, Hun will meet Germantown before taking a two-week break for mid-year examinations. No date has been set for the Tuesday's engagement with Bryn Athyn in Pennsylvania, turn to page 27.

ST. PAUL'S FIVE LOSSES
Scoreless First Period Loss.
Down 14-0 at the end of the opening quarter, St. Paul's School basketball team could not overcome the deficit and lost to Cathedral of Trenton Saturday, which was a 44-34 final.

By half-time, the Princeton visitors had scored in increments but the visitors had bussed in another dozen to raise their total to 26. Paced by Danny Corvino with 15 points, St. Paul's cut into the visitors' margin during the second half but could not launch a strong enough rally to avoid absorbing its third defeat in four games.

The Holy Angels quelled will be the Holy Angels for a while after Lady of Sorrows playing a return contest Saturday. Next Tuesday, St. Paul's will meet Witherspoon on the latter's court.

BOWLING NOTES
SHINING STRONG. Having started the year with a brilliant victory two weeks ago, Frank Stofko continued his hot streak this past week and tossed a nifty 639 series (199-207-233). His fine show wasn't enough to keep his Kingsmen club out of a new title for second place as Princeton No. 1 jumped into a quick second-half lead in the Tri-County Bowling League by sweeping its final match.

Behind Stofko, in the scoring department were Larry DuPray, 211; Harry Kahny, 204; Jim Coffey, 203; and Jim Luck, 200. In the Princeton "A" League, Fred Aschbacher's 606 series (214-200-192) stood out and Bill Ba-shier's 204 was the only other 200-plus game, while, in the Princeton "B" League, a team of bowlers from the Industrial League, 212; Bob Frazer, 220; Don Snyder, 212; Bob Cavanaugh, 211; Dick Edwards, 206; Don Arcamone, 204-201; and John Maser, 200; and Wally Root also 204. Nick Soderstrom again dominated the Industrial League, with a 222, followed by Bob Coffey, 220; Harry Lehrert, 212; and John Maser, 200.

Two-wise, the big news was Tiger Garage's clinching of the first-half crown in the "A" circuit, with one week's play to go.

On the women's side, the 1950 wins) defeated Holt's Shoes (62), Kase Kleeners (60), Knights of Columbus (56), Farm Hardware (54), the Farmers (48) and the Chamber (44). Nelson Glass (42), Sheldom Motors (42) and Keller Plumbing (32), National Guard and General Electric (28 apiece) and the bad boys of the "B" loop, ahead of Jefferson Plumbing and the Annex Grill (24 apiece), while Meek & Baldwin (66) stayed ahead of Newark Del (63) in the Industrial League.

Peg Brown and Betty Kleiner shared distaff scoring honors this past week, the former rolling a 203 in the Women's Basketball League, which beat the Tiger Wright Shop and Nassau Bootery (12 each). Behind Peg were Barbara Deneen, 193; Ann Aitken, 178, while Betty's pursuers were Marilyn Silvester, 191; and Marilyn Lowe and Millie Trani, 177 apiece.

PBA WINS MATCH
Beats Revolver Club, Cecil

Jones and William Golden of the Citizen's Rifle & Revolver Club fired 200, 200 and 200, 200, 291 and 297, respectively, but a 4-man team representing the Patriot's Benevolent Association, Local No. 130, shot better balloons and took the trophy after its opponents in a close, relatively match, 1122 to 1119. The event was held Friday at the club's headquarters on Princeton-Hightstown Road.

Those who won for the police teams firing slow, timed and rapid rounds — were Sgts. Lester Anderson (284) and Richard Steinberg (282); and Patrolmen Michael Lippman (285) and Anthony Michael Difesa (273) of the Township force. Frank Cooney (279) and Stan Reznick (262) were the other members of the Citizen's Rifle & Revolver Club, which put up such a good fight.

TENNIS IN TRENTON

Storms are Hard on the Clothes

They're hard on the homemaker, too. It is exasperating to hang out a clean wash, then have a sudden storm knock down a clothespole, rip clothes off the line or set them dragging on the ground. If you have an automatic clothes dryer you can forget about the weather. No baskets to carry, no clothespins to bother with, no clotheslines to break or fall down . . . Clothes are dried quickly in the dryer. They're handled gently and they are easy to iron, as wrinkles haven't time to set.

SMILE FOR DADDY: The Rev. Henry W. Heaps has been taking movies of his family since 10-year-old Wallace was a baby. The Kingston pastor became interested in photography in the summer of 1947 when he was in Europe. He traveled through southern France, Holland, France and England, (part of the time by Army truck) with a group of Presbyterian young people. In this family portrait, Mr. Heaps holds Wilson. The other boys are, left to right, Donald, Wallace and David. (Photo by Chichkowski)

News Of The CHURCHES

KNOW YOUR PASTOR

Meet Mr. Heaps. Kingston Presbyterian is a young people's church, full of children, high-school-age boys and girls, and young parents all eager to participate in church activity: remodeling the Sanctuary, forming teams for evangelistic visitation, or small, informal, informal study and prayer fellowship groups. Much of the credit for the success and vigor of this activity belongs to the personable young pastor of Kingston, Rev. W. Heaps. He believes that the church program should center around the family unit, from the youngest, mewling member in the unique balcony "Cry Room," to the pew, the pulpit, the study and prayer fellowship groups.

However—and most important in Mr. Heaps' view—is the church program, in the words of its pastor, "A Christ-centered program."

"Unless a church has a Christ-centered ministry," says Mr. Heaps, "it becomes only a secular, civic organization, an organization doing fine things, to be sure, but still not a Christian Church."

Kingston's pastor also strives to make his church a "community church" without under stress on denominationalism. The church recreation program (soft-

Pastors Elect

The Princeton Pastors' Association has chosen its officers for the coming year.

Dr. Richard H. Luecke, pastor of Messiah Lutheran Church, will serve as president. The Rev. Edward C. Gofford of the Second Presbyterian Church will be the new vice-president and the Rev. Yancey L. Sims, pastor of the First Pisgah A.M.E. church will hold office as secretary-treasurer.

The new officers succeed Dr. John R. Boden, who is completing his second year in office as president; the Rev. Andrew L. Gettier, outgoing vice-president; and Rabbi Joseph H. Gelberman, who has been secretary-treasurer.

ball, croquet, horseshoes) is a community affair. The summer Bible school is not only a religious affair, but also a practical, inter-denominational one as well.

There is a practical reason for that emphasis. The church stands at the center of a sprawling area, drawn from students from Morehouse Junction, Hopewell Park, the environs of Kingston and even from Princeton.

To help the crops, these outlying areas, the church has a bus which transports children to Sunday school, young people to conferences and the congregation generally, any place it wants to go.

The Sunday School bus run, incidentally, is for parents who aren't quite up to getting children to Sunday school at all. Mr. Heaps once asked by a mother to get the child dressed for Sunday school, as well as transport her there. But even a pastor with "a shepherd's heart" has to draw the line somewhere.

"The Shepherd's Heart," this past summer, came from Dr. Clarence MacKay, president of Princeton Theological Seminary, and it is a phrase that Henry Heaps took to himself when he was a student at the Seminary.

One of his concerns is to develop "the shepherd's heart," says Mr. Heaps, "a minister must have a real concern for his people, drawing them by pastoral visitation, counseling and Biblical preaching. I have the feeling that I'm not doing as well as I could in this line, but I keep at it anyway."

The Kingston pastor did not start out in life as a shepherd, but as a farmer. Born and raised in a rural area, he and his youth on the 500-acre dairy farm belonged to his father. The drive to be a medical missionary began when he was 16 years old, but his passion of farm work always seemed to come between him and his desire for a Christian vocation.

He did take an active part in Presbyterian youth work, however, and in 1943 he took time off from his father's farm to attend Princeton University and to coordinate the Westminster Fellowship program of the Presbyterian Church. In 1947, he was elected moderator of the National Westminster Fellowship Council and in that year he went to Oslo as delegate to the second World Council of Church Youth.

By the autumn of 1949, he felt unable to return to the farm, as a prosperous farmer had no purpose for him, and he entered John Hopkins night school, the first step in the long road that ended with graduation from Princeton Seminary in 1954.

Mr. Heaps accepted the call to Kingston in February, 1954 and was installed the following June. In the years of his ministry, the church has more than doubled its membership.

Colts In Dimes Benefit

The Baltimore Colts, world's professional football champions, will stage an exhibition football game Monday evening at 8 p.m., against the Trenton Colonials in the Notre Dame High School gymnasium, Lawrenceville-Ridge Road. Preliminary events on the program will begin at 7:15.

Headed by Johnny Unitas, the quarterback who engineered the Colt's victory over the New York Giants in the overtime playoff game last month, the champions will bring a number of their top players to Trenton for the event. The Colonials currently are in second place in the New Jersey State Basketball League and are rated as one of the top teams in the Delaware Valley area.

A feature of the occasion will be the auctioning of a football autographed by the Colts, with another to go to the holder of a lucky ticket. All contributors to the M-W 17-dimes will receive tickets for the drawing.

Recent on Friday.

With Charlie Smyth accounting for ten points, the Blue and White trimmed Wardlaw, 24-22, on the Homecourt court Friday afternoon. Monday saw Barry Crenshaw pace Valley Road to a 25-5 verdict.

Pennington Prep this Friday and West Windsor on Monday are the next two games on tap. Both are home contests for Country Day.

Robert McElroy, former professor of American history at Princeton University, died January 16 in Wilcox Hospital, Kauai Island, Hawaii, after a long illness. A member of the class of 1929 at Princeton, he served as Edwards Professor at the University from 1930 to 1935. He succeeded Woodrow Wilson as head of the politics and history department in 1931, and held that position until 1936.

He was named first American exchange professor to go to India in 1936, and educational advisor to Chiang Kai-shek at one time. Dr. McElroy was elected Harnett Professor of American History at Oxford University in 1937, and served in that position until 1939 when he retired.

During the 1920's he was active in politics, speaking for the Republican National Committee and supporting Gen. Leonard Wood for president in 1920. A former associate editor of the New York Times, Dr. McElroy was the author of many books, including a biography of Grover Cleveland and Jefferson Davis.

He is survived by two daughters, the Rev. Katherine Kehl, pastor of the Emmanuel Welsh Church in Hawaii, with whom he had been living since June, and Mrs. Elizabeth M. Roy of Battleground, a member of the church; his wife, who lives in the big old-fashioned manse in Kingston alive — quite literally; there are two guinea pigs and a very exciting new Christmas pony.

DECISION REACHED Center a Reform Congregation.

Results of a poll conducted among its members were announced this week by the Koinonia Park Jewish Community Center. The vote was taken after lectures had been given by representatives of Orthodox, Conservative and Reform branches of Judaism and the committee indicates that the Center will become a Reform Congregation.

Accordingly, Dr. Albert G. Baum, faculty member of the New York City branch of the Union Hebrew College, has been asked to be guest Rabbi for the Center's first services.

Plans also call for regular Friday evening services to be held in conjunction with the adult education classes scheduled to start next month. Further information may be obtained from Israel Turchin, 10 Joline Road, Kendall Park (DA 9-2223).

STORY STORY RANCH!

for $25,000

We're not being deliberately confusing—it's just that the basement of this ranch house is so sensational that it actually is another floor of living space. Completely dry, part of the basement is now a playroom, another section a room study—guestroom combination, a third a laundry and storage room; and a fourth is a full bath. To move upstairs, the ground floor is completely finished, large living room with Swedish fireplace and large picture windows, separated dining area, small but efficient kitchen, three nice bedrooms and bath, fine closets, all in excellent condition make for comfort and eye-appeal. Near a school and busline on a lot with trees, this location is convenient and pleasant.
